Your first step in Valencia

Before starting the demanding pilot course at Panamedia, Españolé offers an intensive Spanish course that will allow you to:

Build a linguistic foundation

Learning Spanish before pilot training will help you feel more comfortable in Spain and better connect with classmates and locals.

Get familiar with the city

The Spanish course gives you time to explore Valencia, adapt to its culture, and feel at home before starting pilot training.

Enhance your experience

Learning Spanish enriches your cultural understanding and is a valuable asset for an international aviation career.

Why Valencia

Valencia as Panamedia's base

- Valencia is a very Spanish city which enjoys more than 300 days of sunshine per year.
- Historic city centre with remains of many old civilizations.
- Traditions and modern cosmopolitan life stand side-by-side.
- Modern architecture in the City of Arts and Sciences.
- Long sandy beaches.
- Green city with many parks to enjoy.
- Perfect place to enjoy the Mediterranean gastronomy.
- Friendly people.
- Safe environment.
- Easy for young students to get around.

Valencia is one of Panamedia's main bases, where both theoretical training and flight practice for the ATPL course take place. It is an ideal place for aviation students due to its excellent climate, allowing uninterrupted flight practice throughout the year. Additionally, Valencia is a safe and welcoming city with a Mediterranean atmosphere full of culture and activities. The Panamedia base operates at an international airport, providing students with real experience in commercial air traffic settings.

ATPL(A) Integrated Course neo

Panamedia has over 42 years of experience and has been recognised by the European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) as a quality flight school. Panamedia aims to train professional pilots under strict regulations to ensure high safety standards.

Españolé is a Spanish school in central Valencia, committed to offering a complete language immersion experience. With native teachers and cultural activities, they help you integrate quickly and effectively to make the most of your stay.

What is the ATPL course like?

The ATPL(A) commercial pilot course consists of a theoretical and a practical part. At Panamedia, the training is provided by highly experienced professionals in the sector and flight instructors who help students acquire all the necessary skills to fly an aircraft from day one.

Theoretical training: 785 hours over 10 months, covering 14 essential subjects to develop a deep technical and operational understanding for future pilots.

Practical training: 166 flight hours (141 in single-engine aircraft and 25 in multi-engine aircraft) and 95 simulator hours (35 in the Airbus A320), adding up to 261 hours of practical instruction.

ATPL course subjects

The course covers all essential subjects for commercial pilot training, including:

- Air navigation: Techniques for both visual and instrument navigation.
- Meteorology: Understanding weather conditions for safe flight.
- Principles of flight: Physical fundamentals of flight and aircraft control.
- Performance and flight planning: Calculations and procedures to optimize aircraft performance.
- Human factors: Pilot interaction with the environment for safe decision-making.
- Air law: Legal regulations and responsibilities of the pilot.
- Communications: Effective communication during VFR and IFR flights.
- General aircraft knowledge: Understanding of aircraft systems, engines, and avionics.
- Radio navigation: Use of radio signals for navigation.
- Operational procedures: Safe operations in both normal and emergency conditions.

Panamedia - high-quality school recognised by AESA

What do we offer?

Comprehensive training

From language learning to obtaining a pilot license, this programme prepares you for an international aviation career.

Multicultural environment

Start with a Spanish course to integrate into the community and prepare for the academic and professional challenges of the ATPL course.

European certification

Upon completing the ATPL course, you will obtain a license recognised by EASA (European Aviation Safety Agency), which will allow you to fly throughout Europe.

Our students

The students are typically young individuals passionate about aviation, with a strong motivation to pursue a career in the airline industry. Many of them come from different parts of the world, seeking an international experience. The training is aimed at students who wish to obtain a license recognised by EASA to work as commercial pilots in Europe and beyond.

Accommodation with Español

resiolé
Residencias español

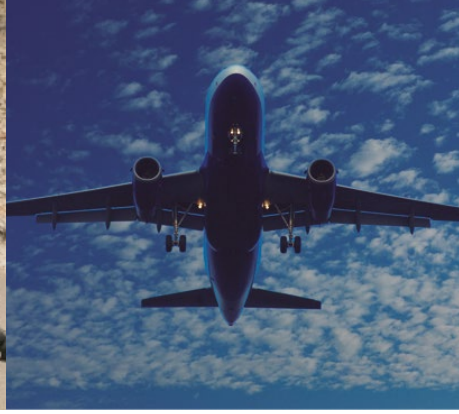

Español offers various accommodation options for students throughout the programme: shared apartments near the centre; ideal for practising the language in a multicultural setting, student residences with a safe and social environment, and host families; for those who want a full cultural immersion.

These options are available from the start of the Spanish course until the completion of the pilot training, providing comfort and stability.

Dates and fees

Programme duration

The ATPL pilot programme lasts 10 months, divided into theoretical and practical training. To be well-prepared and facilitate your integration, we recommend arriving 4 to 6 weeks before the start of the pilot course to take the intensive Spanish course at Españolé. If you wish to achieve a higher level in the language, you can come even earlier (2 to 12 month programmes are available).

Start dates

The next batches start on March, and in September. These dates are fixed, and slots are limited, so early registration is recommended.

The intensive Spanish classes begin every Monday, offering flexibility for starting before the pilot course. Courses are taught in small groups, ensuring more personalised attention. Students receive 20 to 30 weekly classes, depending on the programme chosen, and groups are organised by level, from beginner to advanced, so everyone can progress effectively. This structure facilitates learning in a comfortable environment suited to each student's needs.

Fees

The price of the ATPL(A) neo Integrated Course at Panamedia is 80,000€.
